language arts

We will focus on main idea and details this week. Students will not have a think central test because it is a short week. However, they do have Raz-Kids homework. Students are going to start reading to the class. This is optional. Please make sure your child has practiced reading the book at home before they read it to the class. I will not remind parents to bring a book. If your child forgets their book they will be skipped. The story also needs to be length appropriate. (We will read one story after lunch.)
